

Dr CHAIR Ricky (1998 BEngEE, 2002 PhD)

Dr Chair is currently the Director of Business Development at Airgain, a wireless technology company. He sees his current job as the leverage to his research, and is a combination of technical knowledge and experience. He strives to work with his team of engineers and global technology leaders to develop innovative wireless technology solutions, and to discover business opportunities.

Dr Chair describes his experience at CityU EE as practical and valuable, which has equipped him with what he needs to pursue his career later. He chose CityU EE to study PhD since CityU is a global-renowned university with excellent research teams and resources.

He said he was given ample opportunities to expand his horizon during his study, including an exchange programme at Columbia University, as well as international academic conferences. These opportunities helped him build networks and gain an international perspective. He would remind our current and future EE students to seize those opportunities, and to engage in what they are passionate about. These experiences would definitely help with both personal growth and career development later. Also, do not hesitate to talk to professors for guidance before graduating.
